

Behold! The Mountain of the Lord

C M

Isaiah 2:1–5

Richmond (Chesterfield)

Michael Bruce 1746–1767

Carmina Christi

Revised by Walter P. Snyder, 1957–

Thomas Haweis, 1734–1820

1. Behold! The mountain of the Lord Ascends on judgment day.
The eyes of mankind draw unto Its bright, eternal ray.
2. The beam that shines from Zion's hill Sheds light upon all lands;
Our King who reigns in Salem's tow'rs Now all the world commands.
3. All mortal flesh before Him stands, His word of judgment hears:
"To Me, My faithful flock, ascend; Away, you rest, in tears."
4. Those saved by grace through faith in Christ From ev'ry land and clime
He raises up from earthly dust Unto His courts sublime.
5. No strife now vexes Jesus' reign, Not Satan, death, nor fears;
To plowshares He has turned our swords, To pruning hooks our spears.
6. No longer hosts in battle dress Their slaughtered troops deplore;
They hang their trumpets in the hall And study war no more.
7. Not yet arisen do we live, Nor with full glory shine.
By faith His Word and Spirit lead Us 'til the end of time.
8. Then shall our song united rise, O Christ, before Your throne,
Where with the Father You remain And Spirit ever One.

— Revised text © 2007 by W. P. Snyder

Behold! The Mountain of the Lord

C M

Isaiah 2:1–5

Richmond (Chesterfield)

Michael Bruce 1746–1767

Carmina Christi

Revised by Walter P. Snyder, 1957–

Thomas Haweis, 1734–1820

1. Behold! The mountain of the Lord Ascends on judgment day.
The eyes of mankind draw unto Its bright, eternal ray.
2. The beam that shines from Zion's hill Sheds light upon all lands;
Our King who reigns in Salem's tow'rs Now all the world commands.
3. All mortal flesh before Him stands, His word of judgment hears:
"To Me, My faithful flock, ascend; Away, you rest, in tears."
4. Those saved by grace through faith in Christ From ev'ry land and clime
He raises up from earthly dust Unto His courts sublime.
5. No strife now vexes Jesus' reign, Not Satan, death, nor fears;
To plowshares He has turned our swords, To pruning hooks our spears.
6. No longer hosts in battle dress Their slaughtered troops deplore;
They hang their trumpets in the hall And study war no more.
7. Not yet arisen do we live, Nor with full glory shine.
By faith His Word and Spirit lead Us 'til the end of time.
8. Then shall our song united rise, O Christ, before Your throne,
Where with the Father You remain And Spirit ever One.

— Revised text © 2007 by W. P. Snyder